Sham Battle of Church Cadets at Irish Field Day.

Great preparationsn are being made by the Clan-na-Gael of Long Island for their thirtyeighth annual picnic and field day, which is to be held on the Fourth of July at Bruhn's Washington Park and Casino, in Maspeth, Long Island. About eight thousand persons are expected to attend. In addition to an attractive programme of athletic games, which it is expected will attract some of the best amateur athletes in this vicinity, there will be a sham battle between the Leo Battalion, of the Church of Our ave., will be the scene of the wedding of Miss Lady of Lourdes, and the Loughlin Battalion, of St. Cecilia's Church.

> William J. Daly and James P. Bell, of the games committee, have already received more than two hundred entries for the games, and as many more are expected to come in before the entries close on July 1. In addition to the regular contests, there is to be a Gaelic football game and prize Irish jigs and reels. The medals for first places will be solid gold and may be worn either as a breast ornament or a watch fob. The second prizes will be of silver and the winners of the third places will receive bronze medals. The games are to begin at 2 p. m.
> Three hundred and fifty cadets will take part > on each side in the sham battle, and they are already in training for the contest. Specially constructed fortifications will make the battle more difficult and realistic, and it is expected that the youthful soldiers will burn up enough powder to destroy a small army if it were accompanied with real shot as in actual warfare, ROYAL ARCANUM PICNIC.

MARIE ANTOINETTE'S HARP.

The Sterling Piano Company, of No. 536 Fulton-st., has on exhibition a harp once the property of Marie Antoinette. This interesting relic now be longs to Miss Dagmar Langenberg, a young Swedish woman, who brought it with her to this country about a year ago, and who has in her possession all the documents necessary to prove its au-thenticity. The harp was made by Henri Nader-mann, in Vienna, in 1720. With the exception of the sounding board, it is constructed entirely of fine mahogany. After the Queen's execution it came into the pos-After the Queen's execution it came into the pos-session of a family of Loyalists named Asinleres, who for years kept it hidden in a garret, but in the mean time the papers proving its genuineness were preserved. In 1804 a Swedish count, Uirich von Cronstedt, purchased it, and took it to Sweden, where it had remained until brought to this coun-try by Miss Langenberg, a descendant of the count. The oaken case in which it was taken from France to Sweden is still in use; in fact, the harp was brought here in it last year.
